About This Game

Empires Of Creation is an up-and-coming Sci-Fi themed sandbox game in which the player takes on the role of a fleet commander, destined to make his name in the galaxy and ultimately conquer it. Forge relationships with surrounding empires and use your wit to establish a galactic monopoly. Colonize nearby habitable stars to expand your presence in the cosmos. The universe is your playground in this dynamic economy.

Enjoy fast paced, high intensity fleet battles with enemy ships as you race to the top. Whosoever can prove his superiority in the field and in the diplomatic sphere shall come out victorious.

-Gameplay-

After procedurally generating a spiral galaxy in Empires of Creation the player will find themselves with nothing but potential and an AI that has no regard for life programmed to do whatever is required to conquer the galaxy. Initially the player you will recruit ships from colony worlds that are barely able to scratch the armada of empire fleets, from this point you will proceed to upgrade them to formidable combat hardened battles fleets and eventually destroyers of worlds. The game turns from being a predominantly self centered ordeal, to a risk factoring strategy game as you obtain your first colonizer followed by claiming your first colony and beginning your own empire. Expansion and hostility will find you involved in galactic warfare with entire empires but this is essential if the player wants to obtain the ultimate goal of conquering the galaxy.

I'm decent friends with one of the developers, so when he mentioned a game he was working on with his studio, I was excited. He gave me an alpha build of the game, so I categorized my impressions. Since it was an alpha, I wasn't expecting much, and first impressions were not great when the Menu sped up to 10000% because they forgot to disable Admin mode for the alpha build. However, after around an hour, I could give it a positive review because besides a few glitches, it's a fairly solid game with satisfying controls. Stretching across the galaxy might take awhile, but you feel like you're actually doing something either way, and the space combat is satisfying, feeling almost like a multiplayer version of Asteroid! While there are a few problems, like how the lazer based ships feel like pointing a lazer pointer at the enemy, it's a competent game, and is only going to get better as it is only in Alpha. I would pick it up, but don't play too much of it until the Beta, because then it will really start to shine!. First I would like to say this is the best FPS V Rollerblading Sim game I have played. I would really like to see more dragons in the ginger bread house mission as currently the few I have encountered put my skills to the test as far as this RPG goes. The only bad part about this game is the screen saver like feel I get (rarely!). The other players I've engaged the have shunned me however, no responses as of yet, but as in my social life I will patiently wait for acceptance. Mind you this is the beta and I'm sure more improvements are coming (more dragons, a more expansive hair style selection, and bigger ammunition magazine for potatoe guns), can't wait to see this game at the next MLG event.. There's basically no game to play here. Right click in space, a ship icon representing the fleet flies there, nothing to interact with. If you stumble upon a non-orange ship icon, the game loads into a fight like on the video, but you don't have any way to interact with anything.

I wouldn't even call it a screen saver.. The game in its very early access state is in essence a space dog fighting game, with a dynamic combat mechanism already in place. So if all you want to do is fly about on a starry background fighting pirates, using a range of ships then this is a solid game for you. Although I imagine Empires of creation has the capabilities of becoming a well-rounded game in the future, however some changes are required. These could include game objectives, a helper guide for new players and the fixing of some bugs (bugs include game savingV may be just my pc). Most importantly it would be good if there was a way to winVcomplete the game (if there is then I have no knowledge of it). I would definitely recommend this game, or at the very least keep an eye on upcoming updates. There's basically no game to play here. I am surprised by this game that has unimaginable possibility

I received this game, being told that it was currently in the Alpha stage and there would still be bugs that needed to be found and worked out before the final release. When I started playing, I wasn't sure what to expect or if it would be entirely playable, especially the way the other reviews sounded. However, I found that the game had a rather interesting layout and playstyle that was fun to learn and play. Sure, there are still some bugs and it has a ways to go, but every Alpha game does, and I see a bright future for this one. For those who have been playing and finding bugs, I highly recommend letting the creators know, as I've gotten some really good feedback on the bugs I've reported that were not previously known by them. Instead of bashing the game for being new, why not report them and help the developers make the game even better for those who are yet to play?

Overall, I really enjoy this game so far and will recommend it to my other friends on here. I also think it would be really helpful if those who reviewed the game early on would go back to ensure that their reviews are still up to date with what the game is like, especially since this game is undergoing a lot of bug fixes still.. I think i need something to guide me,because the guide in the game is hard to understand, i think...

Oh!can you add chinese?. This is is Great, I've been looking for something different and I've found it in Empires Of Creation. it take some time getting used to, but it's so much fun when you figure it out.. Splendid game.

With some strategy element.. There's basically no game to play here. Right click in space, a ship icon representing the fleet flies there, nothing to interact with.
